

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE GREAT SECRET.

Mahalia Marshall had become very discontented and for some time she had longed for riches and luxury and everything that was new and expensive and fine.

So the Fairy Wondrous Secrets had taken her to the place where all the surprise packages and secrets were wrapped up. Mahalia had asked to be allowed to stay with the beautiful ladies who lived near where the Fairy Wondrous Secrets did her fine work.

And the Fairy Wondrous Secrets had told Mahalia she could stay with them.

But after she had been there for quite a while, so it seemed to Mahalia, she asked the Fairy Wondrous Secrets to let her go back home again.

"Here," said the Fairy Wondrous Secrets, "you have had everything you longed for. But you have found that you did have some things before. Do you remember you told me that you had nothing? Nothing? And that you were scolded?"

"Only once in a great while," cried Mahalia. "I was loved and kissed and hugged! They cared for me, all of them."

"No one cares for me here. Oh I want to go back. I didn't know I had so much, so much."

The Fairy Wondrous Secrets bent down very low and whispered into Mahalia's right ear:

"Little Mahalia," she said, "you aren't the only one who can't see what riches you have until they are taken away from you. You're the richest of a home and happiness and a family to love you—worth all the walking dolls and talking dolls and fine clothes in the world."

"Will you take me back—on your back—just as we came?"

"Yes, I will take you back," said Fairy Wondrous Secrets.

"Will my family let me come? Oh, yes, I know they will. But oh, how ashamed I'll be to think that I ever left them!"

"Haven't they missed me?" asked Mahalia.

"Only one night has passed," said the Fairy Wondrous Secrets. "You know old Great Grandfather Time is a very obstinate and stubborn old fellow. He wants things his own way. But I begged him to let me have a number of his great grandchildren, the Days, all at once.

"Up, Up They Went."

"So you've been having the Days take turns in spending time down in your Secret Room, but up in the real world only one night has passed. Great Grandfather Time won't change things up there."

"Nothing will change him from doing his usual way there. But he did do this great favor for me and let some of the Days do extra work for me. They all worked hard—Saturday and Sunday and Monday and all of them! Come now, we will start."

Mahalia put her arms around the neck of Fairy Wondrous Secrets and up, up, up they went, up and up and up, until they reached the hole in the wall from which they had left—so long ago it seemed.

"My secret," said the Fairy Wondrous Secrets, "which I have given to you, my little friend Mahalia, is that loving hearts are the greatest riches under the sun! Farewell!"

She was off and soon Mahalia saw her mother bidding over her.

"It's time to get up, darling," she said. A lump came in Mahalia's throat. So long a time since she had been called "darling."

At least it had seemed like a long time. She gave a look at the wall through which she had gone with the Fairy Wondrous Secrets. It was all closed up. The Fairy Wondrous Secrets had left, leaving no trace.

"Yes, Mummy precious," Mahalia said, giving her mother a green squeeze. "I'll get right up."

And back on the edge of Dreamland the Dreamland King was sitting on his favorite cloud.

"Ah, Fairy Wondrous Secrets, that was a fine idea of yours. See, she has left Dreamland now but she will never forget the secret you let her into!"

"But I could never have done it without your help, Dreamland King!" said Fairy Wondrous Secrets.

Playing Keeping House.

Little Edith—Let's play keeping house. I'll be the lady of the house.

Small Nettle—And what will I be?

Little Edith—Oh, you'll be another lady to call on me and I'll pretend to be glad to see you.

GAS BUGGIES—That's going a little bit too far

SOME MEN EXPECT YOU TO SWALLOW SOME PRETTY RAW ONES—

AND OTHERS TELL 'EM SO YOU DON'T MIND LISTENING—

WHILE SOME SECRETLY IMPRESS YOU WITH THEIR IMAGINATION—

BUT WHEN SOME GUY TRIES TO PULL THIS STUFF ON YOU—

IT'S AN INSULT TO YOUR INTELLIGENCE—

AND WOULD YOU BELIEVE IT—THAT ONE SHOT BROUGHT DOWN SEVEN BIRDS—

SO I SAY TO HIM—"I DON'T CARE WHO YOU ARE, YOU CAN'T TALK TO ME THAT WAY—"

WHAT DO HE SAY?

THAT'S PREPPY MORGON—WHEN I WAS HIS PRIVATE SECRETARY WE RALLIED OFF ONE OF THE BIGGEST DEALS ETC—

WHEN I HAD PASSED HIM I LOOKED AT THE SPEEDOMETER AND IT WAS EIGHTY ONE—

WHAT ARE YOU TRYING TO HAND ME—!! & P!!—!!—!!

MORE GOOD THINGS

Everybody likes apple dumplings, but the following is one a little more elaborate than the everyday affair and very good:

Baked Apple Dumplings.—Select tart apples that do not lose their shape in cooking. Pare evenly after removing the cores, put the apples into water enough to float them; add a cupful of sugar and cook until almost done. Remove with the skimmer and cook the syrup until thick. Place each apple on a square of pastry; fill the cores with butter, lemon juice and sugar and drop the strap over the apples. Moisten the tips of the pastry and press together over the top of the apple. Put on a baking tin and bake a nice brown. Serve with cream just sour enough to become thick, into which has been stirred powdered sugar or marshmallow sauce.

Economical Plum Pudding.—Mix in the order given, one cupful of fine sifted crumbs, one and one-half cupfuls of flour, two tablespoonfuls of baking powder, one teaspoonful of salt, one cupful of finely chopped suet, one-half cupful each of raisins, nutmeg and chopped, one of well-washed currants. A few slices of citron may be added if desired. Beat one egg with the juice and grated rind of one lemon and two teaspoonfuls of allspice; add one cupful of molasses and mix with the dry ingredients. Add milk or water to make a thick batter. Pour into a large ring mold or two cylinder-shaped molds and steam two hours.

Vinegar Candy.—Stir three cupfuls of sugar into one and one-half cupfuls of pure white vinegar. Cook until a spoonful dropped in water makes a soft ball. Pour on a flat dish or a slightly greased slab and as soon as possible begin to pull—pulling while it is soft and warm gives it its light and porous texture. Continue to pull as long as the candy is flexible.

Cottage Cheese and Nut Salad.—To two cupfuls of seasoned cottage cheese add one-half cupful of thinly sliced Brazil nuts. Mix with hollid dressing and serve on endive or head lettuce.

Monday Club.

The Monday Club met this week with Miss Forsyth at her home on Pearl street. The paper for the day on "Blasco Ibanez," which was prepared by Mrs. Winne, and was exceedingly interesting, was read by Mrs. Tappen in Mrs. Winne's absence. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Roosa.

Twentieth Century Club.

Mrs. Harrison entertained the first 1922 meeting of the Twentieth Century Club on Monday afternoon. Following the roll call of current events, Mrs. Fessenden read the paper of the day, admirably presenting her subject, "St. John Ervine," after which Mrs. Van Tassel gave readings from "Mrs. Martin's Man." One new member was admitted to the club, Mrs. Florence Wolpert Cuhbert. Announcement was made of the open meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs to be held next Saturday afternoon.

Sorosis.

This week's meeting of Sorosis was held at the home of Mrs. Tappan. Following the especially interesting roll call of quotations from Benjamin Franklin, Mrs. M. A. Tobey gave an exceptionally interesting and entertaining paper on "Character Sketches of Van Dyke," after which Mrs. Van Wagenen read Van Dyke's essay, "Who Owns the Mountains?" The Sorosis members were told of the open meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs to be held on Saturday afternoon at St. Mary's Hall. Medical Value of the Ant.

Those who have been given formic acid as a medical remedy will be interested in its history. The ancient aqua magnanimitatis contained an extract of ants. In 1822 Berzelius first prepared formic acid in the laboratory, and soon after it was introduced into medical practice, although it had become quite obsolete in the latter half of the Nineteenth century. But of late years there has been a slight tendency to make use of formic acid and formates in heart disease. This is an odd coincidence, for the old magnanimitatis received its name from its supposed power to exalt the courage. The formula of the aqua called for two pounds of ants, three pounds of alcohol, and about 100 grains of spices, the mixture being distilled. But it had been announced as far back as 1801 that the acid had some virtues in psoriasis (a skin disease) and gonorrhea.

PALE GRAY SUITS

Striking Garments Collared and Cuffed With Seal.

High-Neck Finishes, Large Sleeves and Low Waistlines Are Outstanding Features.

Very attractive are the suits of palest gray velours de laine, the coats deeply collared and cuffed with seal and lined with black satin. The contrast is almost as startling as black and white, yet the grayish tone makes them possible for winter wear.

The dress coat and the coat dress are still important, and the resemblance between them is so great that Black Broadcloth Coat With Bright Green Broadcloth Cuffs and Braid Trimming.

It is difficult to distinguish one from the other. There are models designed for coat purposes which look like dresses; again there are models, distinctly dresses, that have a most coat-like appearance. Both types agree on high-neck finishes and large sleeves. Practically all have long sleeves and low waistlines. If they are of the chemise type they must blouse over a low-placed girdle of some sort. The day of permitting this type of garment to hang in a perfectly unbroken line has passed.

A new idea appears in the coat dress, or robe manteau, as the French call it, developed in velvet or heavy woolen material and shown with a short circular cape and muff of fur. The muff is crescent shape.

BOON TO HOME DRESSMAKERS

Remnant Counters Offer Attractive Materials for Blouses Featuring Color Combination.

An unusual number of blouses are shown this season that feature a fabric or color combination. This should play right into the hands of the economically inclined woman who does her own sewing or has her clothes made at home or by the neighborhood dressmaker. The remnant counters offer as attractive materials for blouses as they do for children's clothes and hats. With fabric and color combinations approved, it is a very easy matter to find blouse materials among the odds and ends.

Brocades of various sorts combine well with plain silk, chiffon and georgette. Wool fabrics are frequently combined with sheer silks with excellent effect. A very smart blouse is made of rust-colored velours in a fine light weight, combined with chiffon in the same shade. Another smart blouse combined black duvetyne with gray chiffon, the duvetyne forming a peasant bodice, with sleeves of the sheer gray material. A black satin waistcoat blouse had wide bell sleeves of silver gray chiffon. The waistcoat was embroidered in silver thread and fastened with metal buttons in the silver tone.

IRREGULAR HEM IS FEATURE

Distinctive Fashion Carried Out by Use of Panels and Draperies—Fur in Favor.

The irregular hem, such a distinctive feature of many of the new fall frocks and which is carried out by the use of panels and draperies, is also to be met with in the long suit coats which as a rule are inclined to flare around the bottom.

The lavish use of fur is another characteristic of suits and coats. Often an entire jacket front will be fashioned from some soft fur such as mole or caracul, while here and there a winter wrap is seen which besides having a fur collar will also have the sleeves of this rich material.

Pile fabrics which imitate such fur furs as broadtail and caracul are employed as trimmings on the new frocks of silk or wool. Often these manufactured furs are as soft and silky as their prototypes and add a touch of luxury which the plainer velvets cannot give.

Shooting Stars.

Some pieces of shooting stars (meteors) do fall on the earth and specimens are kept in various museums. But usually when a meteor goes flying through the atmosphere the friction between the two is sufficient to melt it, and nothing but dust reaches the earth.

Not A Trick "Ad."

The Christmas "ad" of the New York Dyeing and Cleaning Company in last night's Freeman wasn't something new in advertising. It was a plain mistake, the one that should have been run calling attention to the exceptionally low prices offered at that establishment for work done in January. The advertisement will appear again shortly.

Violent Thunderstorms in India.

Indian thunderstorms are notorious for their violence, though comparatively harmless. According to Mount Stuart Elphinstone, the setting-in of the monsoon in India is accompanied by such an electric convulsion "as can scarcely be imagined by those who have only seen that phenomenon in a temperate climate. It generally begins with violent blasts of wind, which are succeeded by floods of rain. For some hours lightning is seen almost without intermission; sometimes it only flutters near the horizon; at others it discovers the distant hills, and again leaves all in darkness, when in an instant it reappears in vivid and successive flashes and exhibits the nearest objects in all the brightness of day. During all this time the distant thunder never ceases to roll and is only silenced by some nearer peal, which bursts on the ear with such a sudden and tremendous crash as can scarcely fail to strike the most insensible heart with awe."—Scientific American.

The Wet Woods.

Did you ever put on a waterproof, rubber boots, an old hat and wander about through the woods on a rainy day? A foggy day will do just as well, or even a day after a rain. If things have not had time to dry, the moisture has brought out new and brilliant colors. Gray, dull-colored lichen has turned a brilliant green. The color has become rich and variegated on the bark of the trees. Two thousand new shades have developed; red, green and amber, with all its gradations of tone. Mushrooms have appeared everywhere of every color in the rainbow, glistening and brilliant. The very rocks themselves have taken on a new hue, as all stones do when wet. Everything is wholly freshened up. And how the birds sing! And how the squirrels chatter!—Christian Science Monitor.

Merrymaking in Difficulties.

In her book, "Crowding Memories," Mrs. Thomas, Bailey Aldrich tells of a large fancy dress ball in London, which was attended by the greatest and most illustrious persons of the day. "When we arrived at Mr. Bogh's we found the hall and staircase blocked by a figure in full armor on the stairs, a policeman and several knights and cavaliers vainly trying to move it," writes Mrs. Aldrich. "The armor was heavy and unwieldy, the man inside helpless, as long as in the armor over the knees and became rusty or caught in some way and would not bend. The unfortunate prisoner was William Black, whose portrait in this same armor was painted afterward and now hangs in the Glasgow gallery."

A Long Pedigree.

A Bostonian was boasting about his ancient lineage when another man roughly told him that he was a mere mushroom. "Why," continued the speaker, "when I was in London the pedigree of a particular family was shown me which filled five large parchment skins, and near the middle of it was a note on the margin: 'About this time the world was created.'—Boston Transcript.

ARMS PARLEY HAS POOR DAY

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, Jan. 17.—The armsament conference developed a distinct case of doldrums today and neither American officials nor foreign delegates would hazard an opinion as to how long it will take to iron out the numerous difficulties that have arisen to block the pathway to early adjournment.

The Chinese and Japanese delegations held a lengthy session lasting until early afternoon and again failed to make any progress toward settlement of the Shantung controversy. This fact, coupled with the impasse that has been reached on Article 19 of the naval treaty (fortifications clause), resulted in a lack of progress all along the line.

Manet and Monet.

While the art lecture last Saturday was so technical as to make much of a clear and understandable newspaper review rather difficult and in some aspects impossible, the errors of names in last evening's issue of The Freeman were typographical ones. Edouard Manet was the first of the French School of Impressionists, and Claude Monet perhaps the best known of the group.

Houghton To Be Named.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, Jan. 17.—Official announcement was made at the White House today that Representative Houghton of Corning, N. Y., will be appointed American ambassador to Germany. The nomination of Congressman Houghton is expected to go forward immediately.

Merrymaking in Difficulties.

In her book, "Crowding Memories," Mrs. Thomas, Bailey Aldrich tells of a large fancy dress ball in London, which was attended by the greatest and most illustrious persons of the day. "When we arrived at Mr. Bogh's we found the hall and staircase blocked by a figure in full armor on the stairs, a policeman and several knights and cavaliers vainly trying to move it," writes Mrs. Aldrich. "The armor was heavy and unwieldy, the man inside helpless, as long as in the armor over the knees and became rusty or caught in some way and would not bend. The unfortunate prisoner was William Black, whose portrait in this same armor was painted afterward and now hangs in the Glasgow gallery."

BONOMI TO BE AT GENOA CONFERENCE

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Rome, Jan. 17.—Premier Bonomi expects to head the Italian delegation to the proposed international economic conference at Genoa early in March, and it is believed that Premier Lloyd-George will attend as chief of the British delegation.

Italian government officials said today that they are anxious for the conference to be held and that they would deeply deplore any action by France that would postpone or prevent the meeting. It is reported from Paris that Premier Poincaré's presence may depend upon the answer which the United States returns to the invitation to participate.

The Italians are anxious for the conference to be held not only because it is expected to improve economic conditions in Europe, but because of the good moral effect it would have upon Italy's financial position. The financial condition of this country is now causing uneasiness in some quarters.

If the United States participates, it is probable that the following other powers will be represented:

Great Britain, Japan, Italy, Belgium, France, Russia, Germany, Holland, Switzerland, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia, Roumania, Spain, Portugal and Austria.

WOLF PACK KILLS 5 IN ROUMANIAN TOWN.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Jan. 17.—Five men were killed and 30 wounded in a battle with a pack of savage wolves which had attacked the town of Ploesti, in the Rumanian oil fields, said a despatch from Bucharest to the Daily Mail today. The peasants in the vicinity had suffered huge cattle losses. The wolves were driven from their haunts in the wooded mountains by the severity of the winter.

JONES BROTHERS GOT THERE FIRST

Monticello Can Thank Them For Getting County Seat Honors Away
From Thompsonville—Death Recalls Story.

The "good old days" when people traveled by stagecoach or behind foot horses are recalled by the death at Thrall Hospital, Middletown, on January 10, of Mrs.
Adeline A. Brown, whose father and maternal grandfather made an unsuccessful attempt to have Thompsonville named as the county seat of Sullivan county when that county was taken from its parent county of Ulster and erected into a separate county during the winter of 1809. One hundred and thirteen years ago.

Sullivan county was the forty-fifth of the sixty-two counties of New York state to be erected as a separate county. The date of its erection was March 27, 1809. There was spirited competition between Monticello and Thompsonville to be designated as the county seat.

Thompsonville's claims for recognition were boosted by its prominent citizens, who included Colonel Jonathan Stratton and Judge
Thompson. The claims of Monticello were being urged by the Jones brothers, who were prominent in the affairs of that village in those days.

Colonel Stratton and Judge
Thompson left Thompsonville one day and started leisurely by stage-coach for Albany to put their wishes in execution. The zealous Jones brothers learned of their start, but they figured that the stagecoach would take a long time to make the trip and they decided on a short cut. Consequently they saddled the fleetest horses in the neighborhood and pushed their way to Kingston, and thence to Albany, where they arrived ahead of Colonel Stratton and Judge Thompson.
When the latter arrived at Albany
they found that the persuasive powers of the Jones brothers had prevailed with the governor, who had signed the bill designating Monticello as the county seat.

Sometime afterward Colonel Stratton married Judge Thompson's daughter, Mrs. Brown, who died in Thrall Hospital, was their daughter. She was born at Thompsonville in June, 1832. Her husband died twenty-five years ago, since when she spent most of her time at Monticello. She went to Middletown to visit a relative and while there fell over a chair and broke her hip while groping in the darkness for the medicine closet. A few years ago she was worth $50,000 but poor investments greatly depleted her estate.

MINISTER'S CHRONIC INDIGESTION HELPED

Advises Stomach Sufferers to Use
Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules

Rev. J. H. Watrous, Baptist pastor of Jamestown, N. Y., knows what it is to suffer the pangs of chronic indigestion. He speaks from experience when he recommends to other stomach sufferers the sure means of relief which he found so helpful.

In an open letter addressed to "Stomach Sufferers from Indigestion," he writes: "I would advise and urge that any person suffering from the many sorts of indigestion procure at once to give Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules a fair, thorough trial. I have had much personal and painful experience with what has come to be Chronic Gastric Indigestion. Very naturally have tried many different remedies. Am now using Jaques' Little Wonder remedy with very pleasing results. Give them a trial."

Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules
are quick, sure relief for indigestion, dyspepsia, sour stomach, heartburn,
gas and constipation. There is no fuss or bother. Simply take one or two capsules and a swallow of water and get prompt relief. They are sold under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back.

Physicians who have been told the formula for making Jaques' Little Wonder Capsules agree that the ingredients are of excellent medical value in relieving indigestion and dyspepsia. These capsules are superior to pills and tablets which often become hard and pass solidly through the digestive tract. Their pure gelatin covering dissolves within one or two minutes after entering the stomach, releasing the ingredients to begin their pain easing relief quickly. Try them if you have indigestion, dyspepsia, flatulence, car-barr of the stomach, dizziness after eating, gas or heartburn.

When mother and her brood started for town the weather was threatening, so she did not go unprepared. In due time they stepped off the crowded train.

"Have you got all the umbrellas, Johnny?" was her first question.

"I should say I had," said the boy. "I had three when I started and Starlings.

She was fair and fat and forty, but he loved his "Little Mame." She had curls, but artificial—he said that was in the game. And she limped, but c'er so slight; he denied that she was lame. On her upper lip a shadow, still he made her change her name. She had an awful temper—like a hurricane it came. But in spite of all the defects he was dippy for the dame.
She possessed a nifty bankroll—
don't you think you'd do the same.

The Janitor's Lament.

As the janitor pushes along his mop
All over the floor the dust to cop.
He pushes it here, he pushes it there
And oftentimes you may hear him swear.

"Them gum chewers!"

For on the floor he oft finds there
A wad of gum and matted hair.
Which on one's shoes it sticks for fair.

"And that's the reason you'll hear him swear."

"Them gum chewers!"

The above poem ought to be selling pencils on the street corner—it lacks a couple of feet.
